

Just Havin' a Good Time: Community Café presents Chatter-Bang and HoUUse Jam

Our next concert on June 6 will feature a couple of groups with connections to our church who just play music because it's fun for them and they enjoy having people enjoying their music (and dancing in the aisles is OK). Our performers aren't receiving any monetary compensation; all proceeds will go toward upgrading the sound equipment used at the church for these types of events.

Chatter-Bang has its roots in a former group known as Vagabond which had to disband due to a member moving to California (Tom, we miss you!). Featuring Bob Hicks on guitar, Melissa Teinert on cello. Heather Joy on violin, Floyd Simmons on percussion and Megan Marrin & James Moss on vocals, Chatter-Bang produces a lively toe-tapping sound among the genres of Celtic, bluegrass and Americana.

HoUUse Jam (pictured) is the church's standing rock 'n' roll cover band that has been jamming at the church since 2001 with musicians coming and going over the years. They have grown to having nearly 50 songs in their repertoire, with many favorites from the Beatles to Doors to The Band (with and without Dylan) to Grateful Dead and several other artists mostly from the 60s and 70s. They routinely play at church picnics and have done other gigs on occasion. They played as emergency substitutes at an earlier Community Café concert and audience members were happily dancing throughout – who begged for their return, their wish now granted.

A donation of $15 per person is requested. Free childcare is available upon request (72 hour notification needed – email coffeehouse@communityuuchurch.org). Refreshments and snacks are also available at a nominal charge.
